

'THE TRUE CUBICLES-

BIO:

the true cubicles formed in early 2006 after mt (vocals, guitars) and matt (keyboards, drums) played a new year's eve party together. throughout 2006 they played a variety of chicago dives while trying to find their sound. after going through three different drummers during that year and recording a couple of eps, the true cubicles decided to become the two man arrangement that they are today. and that was when they truly came into form.

the true cubicles music is eclectic and uncompromising. remnants of punk, folk, electronica, classic rock and more can be found in the sound. at the forefront are complex lyrics designed to be more meaningful as they are unraveled by the listener. the lyrics are delivered in catchy melodies sure to stick in your head. the keyboard lines range from techno to classical. they are complemented by acoustic and electric guitar backed by simple, driving organic and electric drums.

on the stage the true cubicles perform a set that is energetic and powerful. their two man arrangement boasts a sound as full as any rock band. mt's stage persona is that of a mad professor giving a lecture you cannot turn away from. matt sits behind his circle of equipment pounding his keyboard and drums, flipping switches to keep all the electronics in check, and busting his ass to ensure their full sound.

the true cubicles are not to be missed live or recorded. free of regurgitation and chock full of good ol' 'merican originality, the music will surely stick in your head. a band who owns their own sound and does every song justice, the true cubicles will have you bouncing off the wall and banging your head into it.
